TRUSTEE

CHARITY DEVELOPMENT

Role Advert

Help us turn ambition into a strong, sustainable charity

BASKETBALL SCOTLAND

The Basketball Scotland Foundation is being relaunched with a new identity, a refreshed Board and a renewed ambition to increase the social impact basketball makes across Scotland.

We are looking for a Trustee – Charity Development who understands what it takes to build an effective charity: strong governance, clear strategy, proportionate systems, productive partnerships and the organisational capacity to grow sustainably.

This is a genuine build-stage opportunity. The Foundation has significant potential, but it does not yet have a finished strategy or established operating model. The incoming Board will have real influence over how the charity develops, where it focuses its resources and what it needs to become successful over the longer term.

We are particularly interested in people with significant experience in charities, social enterprises, foundations, third-sector organisations or related environments, including experience of organisational development, governance, strategy, partnerships or supporting organisations through periods of change and growth.

As Trustee – Charity Development, you will help the Board:

- shape the Foundation's strategy, operating model and organisational priorities;
- develop proportionate governance, policies and ways of working;
- translate ambition into realistic plans for growth and organisational development;
- build strong partnerships across the charitable, public, community and private sectors; and
- consider what people, infrastructure and relationships the Foundation will need as it matures.

This is not an operational delivery role. You will bring your experience, perspective and judgement at Board level, helping shape a Foundation that can support people, programmes and places and make a lasting difference through basketball.

Basketball experience is not essential. We actively welcome perspectives and experience from beyond sport.

We want the Foundation Board to better reflect the people and communities it exists to serve. We therefore particularly welcome applications from women, younger candidates, people living with a disability, and people from ethnically and culturally diverse communities, alongside others whose perspectives remain underrepresented within basketball and sports governance.
